

Work And Wages Needed!

WHILE the wages of money in Canada is climbing higher through the manipulation of the dishonest dollar, the wages of labor throughout the Dominion is being steadily driven down. That is a condition which must be halted if Canada is not to succumb to economic suicide.

High wages for money and low wages for labor are related. They are the opposing sides of the coin, or the opposing scales of a balance. When one goes up the other goes down.

To make money profitable to the money lenders it must be made scarce. Scarce money means curtailment of production and a lowering of price scales. Lowering of price scales tends to further curtail production. Curtailment of production means an increasing shortage of jobs and a lowering of wages. These in turn still further curtail production and employment. The vicious circle enlarges with each revolution.

Employers for the most part are helpless in the matter. Unless belonging to the favored classes enjoying protection to an extent far beyond their wage bills, they are as helpless victims of the monetary conditions as the men they are compelled to dismiss or place on reduced wages. The remedy lies in the hands of those responsible for the present scarcity and dearth of money.

HOW short is Canada of the money actually needed to restore her to the price levels and credit conditions which existed three years ago? It is a question that can be answered with a high degree of exactitude.

Mr. Sanford Evans of Winnipeg, well known as a business economist and now holding the high position of President of the Chambers of Commerce of Canada, has made searching calculations on the subject. He says that whereas three years ago there was in circulation in Canada money and credit to the extent of $3,800,000,000, on March 31 of this year that sum had sunk to $1,800,000,000.

Money and credit is the lifeblood of trade. At the present time Canada is suffering from a form of industrial anemia. She has less than half the money and credit in circulation that she had three years ago. Like a skilled diagnostician of trade sicknesses, Mr. Sanford Evans has placed his finger on one of the main ills from which Canada is suffering.

THE remedy is easy to apply. It is within the power of Premier Bennett. He has merely to apply it with success to one commercial corporation in Canada. Under the extraordinary powers he obtained from parliament, he recently used the credit of people of Canada to guarantee the bank credit of this large corporation to the extent of sixty million dollars. Under the powers he has over the currency of Canada he further advanced without interest (until such time as their common shareholders are in receipt of five per cent dividends from profits) some millions of dollars in order that the Angus shops might be kept open and their thousands of workpeople continued in employment.

Not a word of criticism has been offered at the action of the Premier in coming to the aid of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The only criticism that could be given would be were he to deny similar assistance from the public credit to the provincial governments to enable workless people to be put to work, or were he to deny salary stability to the employees of the people's own road.

WHAT is needed in Canada is a policy of "work and wages". Work there is on every hand and yet wages there can be plenty if the dammed up stream of national credit is released for the benefit of the general public as it has been released in part for the benefit of the shareholders and employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is entitled to aid because it too is a victim, like thousands of lesser concerns, of the policy of "sound money", restricted trade and ill-effects that have emanated from Ottawa in the past three years. Were a policy of "work and wages" instituted and the manhood of Canada from one shore to the other placed at work by the use of the national credit, both railroads of Canada would find ample revenues in the transportation of goods and passengers, and be enabled to work out their own salvation.

Until the amount of money and credit in circulation is at least equal to $3,800,000,000 there can be no charge of inflation. To that point—the point at which most of our public and private debts were assumed—it is reflection and an essential step in the return to normal conditions.

GOVERNMENT policies which have forced the C. P. R. to a point where it had to seek aid from the national treasury have driven thousands of lesser business institutions from the Atlantic to the Pacific to the verge of bankruptcy. There is no change in sight. Government policies must be reversed. Instead of curtailing the volume of money and credit—which benefits only the money-lender and the coupon-clipper at the expense of the national progress—the federal government must reflate to at least the point where the manhood of the nation can be put to productive work, where debts can be paid and normal conditions restored. Wages and salaries must be kept up and the consumption-power of the ordinary citizen made use of. It can be done and it must be done. Otherwise greater chaos and ruin will result.

THAT'S GERMS IN THEM THAR HANDSHAKES PARD!

They must have heard in Detroit that Mr. John K. Edmondson and his better half are going to the city in the throes of an election campaign.

At any rate, Dr. Bettsbrook, deputy commissioner of health for Detroit, has come to be with the information that the hands of politicians are thrice more soiled than campaign signs.

It can be done and it must be done. Otherwise greater chaos and ruin will result.

SOVIET OPENLY HANDS OFF JEAN D'ARCY

RUSSIAN CHIEF SOUNDS SIGNAL FROM MOSCOW

Red Army to be Strengthened for "Victorious Moment"

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—The Soviet government's hope for a successful outcome of the Washington recognition negotiations and a sharp warning to Japan to keep hands off in the far east were sounded last night by Vyacheslav Molotov, president of the council of commissars.

He spoke in the presence of Joseph Stalin, President Kalinin, and other high officials of the government in a meeting held at the Kremlin last night. The meeting was held in connection with the anniversary of the October revolution, which will be celebrated throughout the country today.

Molotov declared that President Roosevelt's action in initiating discussions looking to a resumption of diplomatic relations is "one of the proofs strengthening our international position which had been the keynote of our foreign policy."

But he went on to say that the significance of the negotiations between foreign commissar Maxim Litvinoff and President Roosevelt is not limited to the U.S.A. and the United States—but affects the relationships of the whole world.

STRENGTHEN "RED" ARMY

Turning to the Japanese question, Molotov maintained that the carrying out of our policy of peace does not depend entirely on us. It

Danish Women Reach Peak Of Achievement

Mrs. Donald Cameron Tells W.I.L. of Visit to Netherlands

ALAS of Denmark, that plant a true picture of the home life of the people of that country, and their unyielding application to industry, colored the talk given by Mrs. Donald Cameron to the members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, at the W. Y. C. A. on Monday afternoon. Last Sunday Mrs. Cameron visited the country of her husband, Mr. Donald Cameron of the University of Alberta, who was studying abroad in the Netherlands.

The fact that in Denmark there is the smallest percentage of unemployment than in any other country was a significant fact, and that only two per cent of the population is out of work.

Mrs. Cameron spoke of her stay at Elsinore, the site of the International College, where students from all over the world are gathered. Here in Elsinore, she stated, the ghost of Hamlet's father, stalked there and there is marked the grave of the Prince of Denmark himself.

The charm of the country was felt through Mrs. Cameron's description. From Elsinore harbor ships lay in the water and upon their own masts, but in the distance of the old land about them—in spite of the fact that they are probably putting forth their best efforts to get out of the water.

Mrs. Cameron is not overly domesticated. In Denmark, the women are unanimous in their love for peace and freedom. Next to the W. Y. C. A., the W. I. L. has the largest enrollment of members in the world, there are 70,000 of them.

WOMEN TO THE FORE

Of all women in all countries, the Danish women, Mrs. Cameron said, are the most internationally-minded. There is a country of cooperation and they apply the principle based on the boundaries of the nation. Within the state they hold public offices, are school principals, occupy high seats in the professions, and are active in politics. There were seven members of the Danish women's league in all their work they get equal value with men.

CULTURE IN THE HOME

In the International College at Elsinore, English is taught and spoken all the time. Other languages are taught, and the students complete high school training for all children is enforced. That is the reason why the home of the small holders here is a library containing books, literature, pictures, in excellent style, and many of the works of masters, and usually a grand piano.

Mrs. Cameron discussed also the working of the League of Nations, and the various committees, especially the humanitarian committee.

She spoke of interesting people in the home, and the accomplishments of her first husband, a Danish man—delegate to the League of Nations, and student of the League of Nations, which in themselves are indicative of the great power of the woman, devoted with peace.

Mrs. W. A. McCullough presided at the meeting and gave a comprehensive resume of significant events. Following the closing tea was served.

Plans were made for a whist drive and dance at reduced prices on Wednesday, November 14, for an educational night on November 15. It was hoped to have a play or concert in December.

Serving Onions In Place Of "Red Meats"

By HENRY H. MARY
In many households onions are used chiefly for seasoning, comparatively few home-makers realizing their true worth. In other words, it pays to "know your onions" literally as well as figuratively when you are a cook.

Rich in iron, onions are splendid and cheap substitutes for the so-called "red meats." This quality alone makes them a valuable addition to the menu when Sister Mary's break is not served. They also have the virtue of supplementing the inadequate protein of other vegetable foods.

DAKING PRESERVES MINERALS
At this season of the year "dry" onions are at their best and, when properly cooked, provide an economical and exceedingly wholesome food. They are generally considered the proper accompaniment to poultry and game, but are quite acceptable with beef, mutton and liver as well.

Onions lose minerals less heavily through methods of cooking, dry baking them in their husks, just as you would potatoes. Remove the crisp outside skin before serving, but do not peel the onion, and butter at the table.

However, if not drained from the water in which they were cooked, onions can be boiled to advantage. Onions, when unpeeled, lose a portion of rapidly boiling water. By the time they are tender the water will have cooked away the flavor be pleasantly mild. Properly cooked, they are generally marked loss of flavor, leaving the onion crisp and tender.

Cooking in a steamer or infusing the onion with a liquid, such as the food value in terms of calories depends largely on the way onions are served, but it may be said that a cup of sliced onion, approximately 13 calories of protein, 6 of fat, and 10 of carbohydrates.

Copley

The surname Copley is derived from "Copp-land," an Anglo-Saxon term signifying "field near the hill." Undoubtedly early Copleys assumed their name from this place of residence, as so many families did when the edict to leave the land was given. We find the name Copley as a local place-name in various parts of Yorkshire, England.

Copleys emigrated to New England at an early date and settled in Massachusetts and Connecticut. Among many of the names who rendered service to the Colonies during the War of the Revolution, was Daniel Copley, who lived in New York, Conn.

The coat of arms here reproduced was borne by John Singleton Copley, who was born in Boston in 1790. He was a brilliant artist of his day, as was his father before him. The motto, "In Cruce Invenit," was translated, "By the Cross I conquer."

Now, then, kids, we give enter a huddle, then Tommy runs to his ball and we all knock each other over. Remember, Dolls, no fair hits!

STAR GOALIE NEW CAPTAIN OF CHI HAWKS

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—As a reward for long and faithful service, goalie Chuck Gardiner Monday was named captain of Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, an honor rarely accorded a goalie.

After extending his compliments to the Winnipeg Star, Major Fred McLaughlin, owner of the team, came out with the prediction that the Black Hawks would win their first Stanley Cup, the crown of the world's hockey championship, the approaching season.

"I made such a prediction prophesy as I'm about to make now," Major McLaughlin said. "I am confident that this team will win the first Stanley Cup."

The bird then saw the bunch with air, you never know what you will meet. I think I've had my fill. I don't know where we're going, but it's lots of fun to ride along this way.

"We'll find some new place by and by, on earth, or up here in the sky. I guess we will be safe, as long as up this log we stay."

Then Duncy said, "I hope you're right."

These lovely blankets are made by the Pelage process which is known to produce the warmest blankets. The principle that makes them so soft and warm is simple: Esmond has merely copied Nature in giving fur-bearing animals a short undercoat of fur called Pelage to keep them extra warm during the winter season. Cortex blankets are woven on the Pelage principle.
